All Rise Song

Squirrel 1: (Steps forward.) All Rise!

All:
All rise for the judge and doff your cap
To the conscience of this habitat.
Show your respect to the beak in black,
All rise, all rise, all rise!
He'll make you tremble, make you cry,
He'll fix you with his beady eye! (Beady eye!)
The worst of the criminals dare not lie;
He wants the truth, the truth, the truth!

He's very stern and has no fun,
He knows that justice must be done.
His job will sort out right from wrong;
So wise, so wise, so wise!
So if you meet him, please be good,
Behave just as you know you should.
(Know you should.)
Be most polite, call him "m'lud";
He's the judge, the judge, the judge!

The Wildest Song

All: It's in the sounds of the forest,
In the rustle of the leaves,
The creep of an insect,
And the scattering of seeds.
It's in the swoop of a swallow,
And the heat of the sun,
The leap of a salmon,
Where the rivers run.
It's in the dart of a minnow and the dust of a moth,
The snuffle of a hedgehog and the bark of a fox...

It's the rhythm of life.
Feel the energy flow,
Surging through each forest creature,
Nature's greatest show.
It's the rhythm of life.
How can it be wrong?
Hear the beat of the ecosystem,
Sing the wildest song!
