

Dear Parents/Carers

Our school was recently inspired by a very thought-provoking assembly by St Martin's Class which talked about COP26, an annual UN climate conference where world leaders gather to talk about climate change. The UK is currently hosting the world leaders at the COP26 climate conference in Glasgow, and the eyes of the world will be on our Government to lead the way in combatting the climate emergency.

We have been discussing Cop26 with the children in school and should you wish to join in at home, you can watch a short animation from CAFOD (which can also be found on our Eco-Schools GSuite Site) on how we can all make a difference by joining in with the campaign, by children designing their own eyes, to show that they are watching too.

Each child in the school will be given an 'eyes of the world' template to take home, should they wish to design their own eyes. The template will also be available to download from the Eco-Schools GSuite site. This is an optional activity, however it would be great to see many 'eyes of the world' returning to school to help us make this campaign even better! We hope to make a display in school and a photograph of this will be posted on our Eco-Schools Gsuite site.

"Climate change is a problem which can no longer be left to a future generation."
POPE FRANCIS

Thank you to St Martin's Class for inspiring the whole school to take action and thank you for your ongoing support.
